A morning app (not only ofc but...) which once opened will provide a commonly used word in English (will be scrapped from dictionary.com/e/word-of-the-day/).

The user will be able to press the word or card the word is in and this will transfer him to the source.

Scrolling down we will have 5 math problems which the user can predefine the difficulty.

As with the word by pressing a button below the equations the user will be directed to <https://www.mathopolis.com/questions/day.php?y=A1> for some additional problem if the user chooses to.

There could be a section which will provide a tasty dish of the day or some light morning snack full of energy.

Lastly something regarding music, whether it's going to be a song you are not familiar with or some selected lines from songs.
